
Food & Drug Administration

Management Concepts and our team member, Atlas Research, are proud to be selected as prime contractors on the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) Integrated Services (ITS) Blanket Purchase Agreement (BPA). In early 2019, this BPA was awarded to support the FDA by expanding available training support services to meet the agency's strategic human capital goals. The BPA is available agency-wide and provides a streamlined process for accessing a wide range of training, program management, learning management, and human capital consulting support from a select pool of highly-qualified, capable teams. The scope of the ITS BPA covers:

Training Support Services

- Instructional Design and eLearning Support
- Training Delivery Services
- Training Administration Support

Learning Management Systems (LMS) Support

- Capability Assessments and Requirements Development Support
- Administration Support

Program and Project Management Services

Human Capital Management

- Leadership Development Support
- Coaching Services (Traditional & Agile)
- Team Building Services
- Organizational Development (Traditional & Agile)
- Performance Improvement Services
- Change Management
- Workforce Planning Services

Strategic Communications Services

The Management Concepts – Atlas Research Team Difference

Management Concepts and Atlas Research have entered into a GSA Contractor Team Arrangement (CTA) to support the ITS BPA, providing FDA with the best resources and capabilities.

Management Concepts operates as the CTA Team lead and has primary responsibility for Training Support Services, Learning Management System (LMS) Support, Leadership Development Support, traditional coaching, Team Building, and Strategic Communications Services.

Atlas Research has primary responsibility for Program and Project Management, Agile Coaching Services, Organizational Development (Traditional and Agile), Performance Improvement Services, Change Management, and Workforce Planning Services.

Management Concepts has a 46-year history of innovation and success helping improve the performance of the Federal workforce in critical mission areas. In 2019 alone, Management Concepts trained more than 75,000 Federal students in 350+ global locations through multiple delivery options helping to develop crucial skills in essential topics including acquisition, financial management, project management, leadership, analytics, foundational skills, Federal Human Resources, and grants management. Management Concepts offers training delivery and management, organizational design, consulting and coaching services, instructional design, content development, and learning technology.

In addition to exceptional domain expertise in healthcare and medical science, Atlas Research has managed complex Federal programs and initiatives cost-effectively. Examples include modernizing systems, improving customer services, reducing processing, and wait times while increasing capabilities and employee morale.

Management Concepts and Atlas Research will bring forth learning and consulting support solutions to support FDA’s enterprise-wide strategic human capital initiatives.
